FISCAL NOTE ANALYSIS

STATE OF ALASKA
2022 LEGISLATIVE SESSIONAnalysis

This bill makes a number of changes to the criminal law designed to protect the community and create efficiencies in the criminal justice system.

The bill requires the defendant in a case to give the prosecutor 48 hours' notice when requesting a bail hearing. The notice is required to contain the proposed bail conditions the person is seeking to modify. There is also a corresponding notice provision for detention hearings in juvenile cases. In addition, when imposing bail, the court is required to make its findings in writing. The bill also establishes a presumption that a person poses a danger to the community or may not appear at scheduled court hearings if the person has repeatedly violated conditions of bail.

The bill also allows evidence (including hearsay) to be presented to the grand jury if the prosecutor believes that that evidence would be admissible at trial. Witnesses are also allowed to summarize admissible evidence if that evidence will be available at trial.

The bill also amends the plain error rule (Rule 47, Alaska Rule of Criminal Procedure) to only allow errors to be reviewed by a court if the defendant objected when the error occurred or if the error (1) was not the result of a waiver or tactical decision not to object; (2) was obvious; (3) involved substantial rights; and (4) was prejudicial. The changes in this bill will create efficiencies within the system and, therefore, the department does not anticipate a fiscal impact.
